Excerpt: .or the look of Hope, emphatically painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds? The Intellectual faculties have also a peculiar expression. Do we not shut and press the eyes-to remember names?--Does not an arithmetician move his eyes outward, and his. head, backward and forward in calcuCran. F lation?--Does not poetical fancy throtf the eyes outward and upward? People wag the head backwards and forwards in a peculiar manner, in hearing musical tones and merry tunes. Observe a remarkable example in the Pandeans at Vauxhall. Does not Sterne put his finger on the organ of wit?--In short there is an expression corresponding to the activity of every organ, to which the eyes are often turned when it is in action, and which we frequently stimulate into action, by the external application of the fingers, and whose activity we denote by the manner of holding the head.
