Report the results as the number of hours of actual discharge to the limiting value of impulse current. Notes: --Fig. 3 shows diagrammatically the arrangement for a single test. When the number of tests is not large the circuits may easily be closed by hand. When a great many tests are to be made, it is convenient to arrange a clock-operated automatic circuit closing device. By varying the length or number of discharge periods, the test may be made representative of any special cases of ignition. For a good comparison of the fitness of various cells for general ignition service however, the test as given above is to be recommended. Particular care should be taken to keep the temperature of ignition test batteries as nearly constant as possible, as the service obtainable is greatly influenced by this factor, as shown by the following table in which are given the averages of five separate Fig. 3. tests conducted at 5, 25, 35, 45, 55, 65, and 75 degrees centigrade.
